Rain Gardens
Tuesday April 29th

Patricia Pennell is back by popular demand to discuss the benefits of adding a rain garden to your landscape and to answer questions on designing one for your backyard.

Nate Fuller
SW MI Land Conservancy

Invasive Species, 10 most wanted
Tuesday May 20th

Is your garden or natural area being taken over by something but not sure what it is? Nate Fuller will be here to discuss the top 10 invasive plant species in southwest Michigan and how to control them before they become too established.

Rebecca Nielsen
National Wildlife Federation

Birdscaping
Tuesday July 22nd

Over the years bird populations have been declining due to habitat destruction. Learn how you can help when Rebecca Nielsen shares tips on how to create and maintain habitat that will provide a home for Michigan birds and other interesting wildlife that you can enjoy from your kitchen window.

Jordan Burroughs
Michigan State University

Uninvited garden guests
August 19th

What's eating your plants and why? From MSU's Department of Fisheries and Wildlife, Outreach Specialist Jordan Burroughs will explain why certain animals are invading your garden or natural area. In addition to teaching us about these critters, Jordan will tell us what we can do to compromise.
